SECTION ONE

Flints sell a huge variety of specialist brushes. We would be happy to provide special quotes for educational departments and large scene shops.

PURDY ARTIFICIAL BRISTLE BRUSHES

Purdy Brushes- The Professional's Choice

Flints stock a wide range of these popular synthetic bristle brushes. Purdy brushes incorporate a blend of nylon solid round tapered [SRT] and polyester bristles. This combination provides the right firmness without leaving brushmarks and provides excellent shape retention. The artificial fibres are noticeably easier to clean than conventional bristle with guaranteed no hair loss. Suitable for all paint types. Purdy brushes outlast other makes. Examples exist of brushes that have painted over 1000 houses with no signs of wear! Purdy Elite and XL ranges are the only brushes exclusively approved by the British Decorators' Association. To encourage you to try these brushes we are offering a mixed three brush set [see page 1.43] with a cleaning comb at almost 45% off the recommended selling price!

The Best Varnish Brush!

Pro-Extra Monarch If there could be a criticism of the Purdy range it would be that they lack enough body to work with really heavy enamels and varnishes. This new formulation has the necessary stiffness needed to manipulate heavy bodied paints with exceptional paint delivery and lay off. Purdy guarantee 30% extra coverage when using this distinctive blue headed brush. Suitable for all paint types. My personal choice of varnish brush.

Glide Elite These are the most popular shaped brushes in America and Australia. They are now selling well with scenic artists in this country. The bristles are not just cut off at an angle but the stainless ferrule runs parallel so the bristle length is constant. The angle chosen matches the normal painting position and so delivers the paint more evenly than a square brush used at an angle. Nylon SRT/polyester mix with a long alderwood handle.

JENNY FOAM BRUSHES & ROLLERS

As used by NASA

No brush marks just a mirror finish!

Jenny Foam Brushes and Rollers Don't be deceived by imitations - Jenny Brushes are the original foam brush using a patented foam supported with a polyethylene stiffener. Flints are the main UK dealers for these renowned brushes which are ideal for applying and laying off high gloss finishes such as enamel or varnish. The Jenny rollers are designed for rapid application of paint and varnish which can then be layed off vertically by a second person with a wide Jenny brush. By working rapidly lap marks will not occur. The brushes are easy to clean but also cheap enough to throw away making them ideal for touching up work. The finish achieved with these brushes is first class and they are the preferred choice of many of Britain's classic yacht yards seeking the perfect finish. They are also used by NASA for the application of primers, top coats, grease, release agents and adhesives. Not suitable for use with shellac.

ROLLERS

We stock a large range of rollers for every purpose. For painting very large areas we stock sleeves up to 18" wide, see page 1.49. If you are painting scaffold tube look at the Pipe Roller on page 1.50. For texturing, foam rollers can be cut away to add depth and interest to your work. For gloss work choose a top quality short pile roller such as the Purdy Parrot or why not try the Jenny roller system used by professional yacht painters on page 1.47.

Stirring things up

Stirring paint really is important, a quick shake of the can simply won't do! As much as the manufacturers try, the different chemicals in the paint will tend to settle out. All the matting or bonding agents may be at the bottom of the can giving you a patchy or translucent finish with poor adhesion. Please give your paint a chance.
